Risk management recommendations

We always recommend starting at as low a risk as possible and slowly increasing it week to week until you get a comfortable setup for your own personal preference.

The default risk is 11% per trade, you can deviate from this setup either way if you want a higher gain with more risk, or a lower gain for an even safer setup.

Just because we have optimized settings for all major pairs doesn't mean you have to run them all together.

Don't forget to take your profit at least one a month.
